No Reason Raows for His Suicide Except fashility to Get Work - Who Is Assa, With Whom He Wanted to Go West? Frank R. Hubbell, 45 years old, of North Adams, Mass., committed suicide in his room at the Hotel St. Stephen, 46 East Eleventh street, some time during Wednesday night. He came to this city on Nov. 12 from Wayne, Pa., and registered at the hotel late in the afternoon, He was assigned to room 20, but was subsequently moved into No. 45. He was seen but little about the botel, going out early in the morning and returning to his room late at night. On Tuesday night the hall boy reported that the occupant of 45 was evidently drank, and had been flourishing a revolver. The boy took the weapon away and gave it to the clerk. The next day Hubbell asked for the revolver, which was given back to him. When he returned to the hotel on Wednesday night he appeared to be in good spirits and talked to the Bhortly after 9 o'clock yesterday morning telegram from the West, addressed to Hubbell, was delivered at the hotel. The clerk told a bell boy to take it to room 45. Receiving no reply to his knock, the boy told the clerk that he thought something was wrong. The clerk burst open the door of the room. The occu-pant lay undressed in bed. His head was half buried under the pillow, which was stained with blood. There was a hole stained with blood. There was a hole in the suicide's right temple, and a revolver, one chamber of which had been discharged, lay on the floor beside the bed. On the bureau were a box of cartridges and three letters stamped and scaled. They were addressed to Charles B. Hubbell. 2 Wall street, New York; Horace Sherman, 61 Main street, North Adams, Mass, and to Mark H. Hubbell. Wayne, Pa.

Beside the letters were a gold watch and chain, two pipes, a diamond ring and scarf pin, and a pocketbook containing $2.35. In the pocket of the dead man's coat were two letters. One was from Philadelphia, and was signed Mark. It was dated Nov. 14, and read in part:

"I am sorry you did find connect with the milk people. Start in at anything you can get to keep going until I can do something for you." The letter went on to say that the writer expected to find something for Hubbell to do within a short time.

The second letter, which was written on the hotel paper and was unsigned, eaid:

"My DEAR ANNA: I was sorry to hear that you had decided not to follow out the plan. It may be all right in the end. Walt until some day next week and you and I will go West if all is right."

The letter was dated Nov. 13, It was evimay be all right in the end. Wait until some day next week and you and I will go West if all is right."

The letter was dated Nov. 13. It was evidently written by Hubbell. In a letter written to Wayne, Pa., Hubbell said that he was unable to get anything to do and had become completely discouraged.

Charles B. Hubbell, to whom one of the sealed letters was addressed, is a brother of the dead man. He is a lawyer in this city, and is a Commissioner of Education. Mr. Hubbell is absent in Bt. Louis, but his confidential clerk, Mr. Rogers, called at the Coroners' office. He said that he could give no reason why Frank Hubbell should have committed suicide, and that he knew very little about him. It was said yesterday that Hubbell had been a salesman for several concerns during the past few years. He had lately been employed by Horace Sherman, a North Adams grocer.

From the letter which Hubbell wrote to his brother in Pennsylvania, and from the contents of the one received from him from Philadelphia, it is supposed that, being unable to find employment, he had decided to give up the struggle and kill himself. The revolver with which the shooting was done was new, and had evidently been purchased since his arrival in this city. Who the woman named Anna is could not be learned yesterday. Hubbell, it is supposed, had suggested some plan to her, which she had refused to carry out. The body was taken charge of by Mr. Rogers, pending a message from the dead man's relatives.

STREET MUSIC IN BROOKLYN. It May Not Be Heard Any More After

At a recent meeting of the Brooklyn Board of Aldermen a resolution was presented by Alder-man Cohn prohibiting all itinerant bands from playing in the streets and interdicting all organ resolution was referred to the Law Committee and yesterday afternoon the committee sat for two hours to hear arguments for and against two hours to hear arguments for and against the proposition. Representatives of the musical unions and of the wandering minstrels were on hand and all had their say.

The latter admitted that they played for less money than the members of the union, and that some of them were not citizens. There were only five itinerant bands in Brooklyn it was said, the others coming from New York and Jersey City. It was denied that there was any padrone business about the itinerants. The musicians made only from $4$ to $5$ as week each. J. Schreiner, one of the travelling musicians, said that the poor people—the working people—favored the street bands, and he thought these people should not be cut off from the music.

Alderman Leich—Do you think that the so-called high-toned people pay you to play or to move on?

Mr. Schreiner.—Why, they pay for the music.

Art. Schreiner—1t is often the case that we are ordered off, but it is only because of death or sickness in the house.

Mr. Schreiner indignantly denied that the musicians played in front of salcons for a couple of glasses of beer or a few cents.

Mr. Flaherty, speaking for the organized musicians, said that the itinerants came here in the spring time, made money during the summer, and returned to Europe to spend it in the winter. Many of them came here under contract. It is un-American to travel around the way they did, merely as beggars. The committee decided by a vote of 3 to 2 to report in favor of the adoption of the resolution. Aldermen Walsh, tiulfoyle, and Leich voted in the affirmative, and Aldermen Cary and Hess in the negative. There will probably be a hot contest over the matter when it comes up in the full Board on Monday.

MORE TROUBLE IN THE TWELFTH. Capt. Baraard's Company Has Another

Company D of the Twelfth Regiment is having and although three efforts have now been made to fill the vacancy, each attempt has failed.

The first attempt was in May, and resulted in a draw; another was made a month later, in which two rival factions got into a dispute and made all kinds of charges against each other, including ballot-box stuffing, and one more vote was found in the box than there were members present, and Col. Dowd called the election off. present, and Col. Dowd called the election off.

Another attempt was made last Wednesday night, and the result was another dispute; and the matter has again been left for Col. Bowd to settle. Wednesday night last there were two candidates for the office, namely, First Sergeant R. Paul and Quartermaster Sergeant E. A De Russy. Capt. R. R. Barnard presided. The rival factions were about evenly divided.

Sergeant Do Russy was credited with recsiving 20 votes, Paul 10, and there were three biants. Capt. Barnard declared De Russy elected, and immediately there was a tremendous uproar. There were cries of fraud, a dozen men jumped to their feet to talk at once, and they declared the ruling of the Captain was in violation of the military code, that a candidate must receive a majority of the votes cast. A free fight seemed imminent.

Capt. Barnard finally agreed to refer the matter to Col. Dowd. The feeling is very bitter, and the men of both factions declare that unless their man wins they will leave the company as soon as possible.

TRAFFIC ON THE ELEVATED BOADS.

The publication of the report of the Third Av-Oct. 31 and that of the Manhattan Railway Company for the year ending Sept. 30 makes it possible to compare the business of the two systems for nearly the same period. The Manattan Company shows a loss in gross earnings in its fiscal year as compared with the twelve Third Avenue Railroad Company, on the other hand, shows a gain over the business of the pre-vious fiscal year of $354,255, on a total business only one-fifth as large as the Manhattan Company.

The latter company on its lines in the city lost The latter company on its lines in the city lost 23,789,363 passengers, and a very large proportion of this loss is accounted for in the increased earnings of the surface lines. The extension of the transfer system above Fifty-unith street by the Metropolitan Traction Company and the extension of the Sixth avenue line of cars to and along Amsterdam avenue has taken a large amount of traffic from the Sixth avenue and Ninth avenue 'lines of the elevated road. The surface road under the elevated structure on Columbus avenue and connecting with the Broadway cable road has also carried a great deal of traffic that formerly went by the elevated road. Since the opening of these two routes the transfer business has been largely increased.

The stockholders' meeting of the Thirty-fourth street railway adjourned yesterday until Nov. 29 without electing new officers. The Sec-retary of the company said that the line through Thirty-fourth street from Sixth to Lexington avenue will be completed and in operation the latter part of next week.

The committee, according to this report, established eight people's restaurants in different parts of the city, where meals were served at 5 parts of the city, where meals were served at 5 cents each, and these were also depots where food, cooked and uncooked, was supplied at cost in convenient quantities to aid those who had but little money to spend. The central office was at 170 lileecker street, where there was a kitchen capable of preparing 25,000 meals a day. Hesides the good done in this way, a large number of persons were helped by taking them into the employment of the committee as cooks, waiters, drivers, book-keepers, atewards, inspectors, and cashiers. From 130 to 140 persons earned their board and clothing in this way and proved faithful to their trust. They handled more than $30,000, mostly in five-cent pieces, and the committee reports that it lost but $42,90 through them. More than 1,500,000 meals were supplied to the poor.

It was not until the last half hour of business that the stock market developed any positive tone. Heavy selling of the coal stocks and the continued weakness in Sugar Refining began then to have more influence on the general market, and the close was heavy, though except in the stocks named and in the Cordage shares the net losses were not considerable. The break in the coal stocks was accompanied by a revival of the reports of cutting of sales prices; but as the stories lacked novelty, it must be assumed that they were merely the campaign talk of the two or three large room traders whose sales were hiddle.
